BELIEF GROWS "FOX" TO TRY ESCAPE NOOSE
(By Universal Service)
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28.—William Edward Hickman's course of action with regard to the legal attempt to send him to the gallows for the death of 12-year-old Marion Parker, is the principal matter of conjecture in his case today.
The confessed kidnaper and slayer of the child has asserted his willingness to plead guilty and ask for immediate sentence. District Attorney Keyes has stated on several occasions.
But with Hickman in his cell in the county jail and the hour of legal action rapidly approaching, there is a general feeling on the part of officials that the prisoner will make every effort to escape the noose.
MAY PLEAD INSANITY
An insanity defense is regarded as the most likely to be looked for from the man who has confessed to kidnapping the Parker girl, strangling her and cutting her into seven pieces, and returning part of the body to her father for $1500.
District Attorney Keyes is planning to combat possible moves to save Hickman from the gallows on the ground of insanity and age. Hickman, he said, already has been simulating insanity. The prosecutor now has psychiatrists at work making observations of the prisoner.
Keyes declared his office has definite records available to prove Hickman is 19 years of age, should the defense try to save the youth from the gallows by asserting he is under 18.
"I distrust Hickman's apparent willingness to plead guilty, and accept the supreme penalty of hanging for his brutal crime," Keyes said.
ATTORNEY DUE TODAY
Hickman will be taken into the court of Superior Judge Hardy for arraignment at 2 p. m. tomorrow. This arraignment was postponed from yesterday to allow for the arrival of the prisoner's attorney, Jerome Walsh, who is due to arrive here from Kansas City tomorrow morning.
Attorney Jerome Walsh is the son of Frank P. Walsh, prominent labor lawyer. The father says Jerome is "on his own" in the Hickman case.
The junior Walsh is the youngest member of the Missouri legislature. He has had four criminal cases since he finished school at Georgetown University and has won all of them.
His only important court case was that of a motorcycle policeman accused of extorting $2000 from a druggist accused of selling bootleg liquor. He won an acquittal after three trials.
Walsh, enroute, has refused to make any statement of his plans, saying he must see Hickman first. He is said to be considerable mystery concerning the financing of Hickman's defense. District Attorney Keyes was notified in a telegram by Mrs. Eva Hickman of Kansas City, the prisoner's mother, that Walsh had been retained in her son's behalf. It is reported that Mrs. Hickman's means are limited.
Attorney Walsh will reach here at 9 a. m. tomorrow. He is expected to go immediately to the county jail to confer with his client.

BLAMES COMPLEX
Hickman this morning was reported to have talked in a way which indicated he planned to follow the Loeb-Leopold line of defense. He is said to have confessed to having had a desire to commit the "perfect crime," and to have discussed volubly on such subjects as complexes, impulses, and instincts.
He was quoted as blaming a "complex" for the commission of the Parker crime.

Kidnaper And Victim Clue To Identity Of Man Found In Bay Is Hunted

Following an inquest held last night in Martinez into the death of an unidentified man, whose body was found yesterday morning floating in the Carquinez Straits near the Crockett plant of the California and Hawaiian Sugar company, Coroner Aubrey Wilson is seeking through the newspapers identification of the man.
He is described as being about 50 years of age, weight about 180 pounds, five feet eight inches in height, of dark blonde complexion with blue eyes and stubby nose. Both arms carried scars of previous burns. He was dressed in blue serge trousers, a white shirt and wore black dress shoes. On him was found a key ring as from a hotel room with the number 25 on the disk.
IN WATER FOR WEEK
From the condition of the body, it is believed that he had been in the water eight or ten days. There were no discernible marks of violence on the remains.
He wore a gold ring set with a $250 gold piece bearing the date 1859.
The body was found by William Rossi, an employee of the sugar company, who testified at the inquest last night. The jury brought in a verdict that death was due to drowning, but did not state whether accidental or suicidal.
PROBE MYSTERY DEATH
The jury found that Arthur Lefebvre, whose remains were found in his room in the Rose apartments in Martinez Tuesday noon, came to his death due to asphyxiation by gas fumes and was unable to determine whether death was accidental or suicidal.
The man was found sitting in a chair beside a small gas plate from which the fumes were escaping. He was a native of Canada, and was an employee of the Associated Oil company. He is served by four children, Clarence Lefebvre of Pinole, Mrs. Violet Noyes of Hercules, Miss Gladys Lefebvre of Auburn and Ralph Lefebvre of Berkeley; three brothers, Ray Lefebvre of Pinole, and Alec and Floyd Lefebvre of Sacramento; and a sister, Mrs. N. A. Hamilton of Associated.

HINT ESTRANGEMENT
Search of Lefebvre's room by Deputy Coroner Jack Connolly disclosed a letter written to the man by a member of his family, which indicated that there might have been some estranged relations. Authorities considered the possibility of accident inasmuch as the gas jet was not completely opened and Lefebvre's body was reclining in a chair as though the man was seeking rest.

Official Paper Of The City Of Richmond, California

THURSDAY, DEC. 29, 1927.

ELEMENTS OF PROSPERITY

Ten major elements in business which give assurance that the final 1927 record will be favorable as well as the beginning of 1928.

1.—The agricultural situation with large crops being harvested except in fruit, cotton and corn. Total agricultural income is estimated in excess of $12,000,000 the average of the last five years.

2.—Easy money with current rates ruling well below October a year ago due to heavy gold imports combined with substantial purchase of government securities by Federal Reserve banks giving a credit expansion of over $1,000,000,000 going principally into the stock market, but leaving plenty of credit available for commercial purposes.

3.—Numerous major industries, somewhat slack this year, headed for improved conditions in 1928, for example, steel, oil, automobiles, coal textiles, tanning and shoes.

4.—Building construction. Contracts awarded the first eight months of 1927 exceed the total for the same period in 1926. Records levels are being maintained.

5.—Firm general commodity prices, especially in farm products now on a parity with other goods, the farmers goal for several years.

6.—The favorable condition of the stock market.

7.—The healthy condition of the bond market.

8.—Foreign trade with exports for the first seven months gaining 5.3 per cent over the same period in 1926 and imports for this period 7.5 per cent less than last year, despite fears of foreign competition and predictions to the contrary.

9.—Government finances are in better shape than for more than a decade with debt retirement around the $1,000,000,000 annual rate averaged since 1919.

10.—Probable legislation to be taken up by congress. Tax reduction will be bullish to business and the election bogie need not necessarily hamper next year's business.—American Bankers' Association Journal.

How To Earn Money!

I have so many letters from my readers asking for jobs that they can do in their spare time that I have been wondering just how much work of this sort there was. One type of work seems to me to be especially adapted for people who will give up a few hours each day. That is waiting on the table.

In restaurants, of course, the waiters are hired for steady work but in boarding houses they do need people to come in at certain times and help out. The best part of the arrangement is that it takes only a few hours and you usually get a meal in addition to pay. For people who stand at their work all day or for housewives who are constantly on their feet, I think it would be too tiring. But those who have clerical jobs and who sit most of the time would find a splendid opportunity in this type of work to add a little to their incomes.

I want to make sandwiches for drug stores, etc., but do not know what I should charge the dealer. I have in mind a drug store near where I live that is not far from a school and drives of children pass. I am wondering if sweet sandwiches would prove an attraction, and perhaps the meat, vegetables and egg sandwiches.

M. A.

I should say charge half the price that the sandwich will retail for. Or, if you find that it costs you so much to make on your profit, and let the drug store man decide his profit. Good luck to you!

I would like to open a small shop, carrying wool, stamped goods, making infants' caps and sweaters and also crochet and embroidery cotton. Could you give me an idea just how much it would be necessary to invest?

W. F.

I wonder if a great many of my readers would not be interested in Mrs. W. F.'s shop? I don't think it would cost very much, my dear W. F., if you were to display the beautiful articles I display. Many of my readers make and sell them, taking a commission for yourself. However, if you think you can manage the overhead for a while, I am sure many of my friends would be glad to help along.

CUTEST THING BABY EVER SAID

IS YOUR WORKROOM WELL LIGHTED?

You cannot work well if you cannot see clearly. Good lighting is essential for good work and good health says the Bellevue York health.

If you complain frequently of headaches or do not feel as full of pep and vim as you ought it may be due to eye strain caused either by poor light or from eye defects. Too much light may also be made. Place your desk light so that the things you are working at are brighter than anything else you see in front of you. Lights should never shine directly in the eyes.

There is something that has been answered and more reasons given than there are years in the average man's life. But who believes any of the solutions?

So many, many women fear that their husbands have reached the most susceptible age of 40 or 50, or 35, will be seduced by some other woman. They write me about it and if they have the fear, then it is a problem, but it is a problem to which they alone hold the solution.

If a woman fails, however, unconsciously to interest a man that she married her after they have been wed for a number of years. In my mind is usually her own fault. A woman cannot expect a man to be interested in the details of the price of butter or the cleaning woman's failure to wash the dishes properly. He is interested, though, in his wife's reaction to methods of rescue or capital punishment.

And the husbands of these women who are so afraid that they will lose them to some younger more attractive woman, really don't fall entirely for the looks of the younger, more attractive woman. The woman usually is interested in the things going on about the man and the man's world. I can see a lot of my readers shrugging their shoulders and can almost hear them say, "Humm," but it really is a fact in a great many cases, and one sure way of holding a man is to be interested in what's going on all about us in this lovely world of ours.

Dear Patience See—

We have been married for sixteen years. We have always been happy and devoted. We have one little boy, and my husband is very fond of him. Lately, though, I feel that my husband is interested in a young woman who comes to our house a lot. She is a fine girl and I have often wondered why he never married. He is 30 years old. I feel out of it when she and my husband talk, because they always talk about boat racing and politics and things that have been in the papers, and I don't know what it is about. I know he loves to have her come to the house and always wants her for a partner in cards. I am so afraid it will lead to something else. What will I do? Not invite her so much?—WORRIED.

That would be just the thing not to do—not invite her so much. For goodness sake, take hold of yourself and give yourself a mental shaking. You can't have so much work to do that you can't read the newspapers and keep abreast of the times. And if your husband is interested in boat racing, why can't you be interested in it too? It is clearly up to you. There is no doubt at all that your husband is merely interested in a nice friendly way in a woman that meets him mentally.

I work in a drug store. We have lots of candy on the shelves. One fellow used to take a handful of peppermints every time he came into a drug store and to cure him of the habit I changed them for mothballs. A little later a lady came in and asked to sample the mints, and without thinking, I handed her the mothballs.

Your Birthday

NOVEMBER 11

This is the birthday of Robert Hichens, author of "The Garden of Allah" and other well-known novels. Mr. Hichens was born in the combined influence of Scorpio and Gemini. The Sun and Mercury were in Scorpio, and the Moon, Mars and Uranus were in Gemini. This gave him all the Scorpio intensity, power of observation, penetration and love of adventure, combined with the literary power of Gemini. Scorpio and Gemini are not especially harmonious, but in Mr. Hichens' case this was counteracted by the trine of Saturn to the planets in Gemini, which increased the power of concentration and did much to offset the Gemini restlessness.

The present screen vamp and the melodramatic actor of a previous generation are types which may be associated with the sign of Scorpio. In appearance, the Scorpio type is powerful, muscular and rather thick-skinned, with a dark complexion and abundant hair. But all those born when the Sun is in Scorpio do not manifest these characteristics, because there are so many other determining factors. Really, these born at an hour when Scorpio was on the horizon are more likely to run true to type, but even this is only true in a very general way. A person born when Mars was rising would be very different to one born when Venus was near the horizon. Probably the characteristic most usually found in Scorpio people, so far as appearance goes, is the rather deepest and the steady penetrating eye.

There is something compelling and unapproachable about the eyes of Scorpio. They may be blue or they may be brown. It is not so much the color as it is the penetrating intensity and passivity that imbues Scorpio's magnetism. The majority of Scorpios are dark, but of course much depends upon the race. Some of them have red hair, which is often curly. In the northern races, one naturally expects them to be fair. Many Scorpios cultivate immobility of expression because they realize that it is an evidence of power, not only over themselves, but also over others.

SOME DANCE DRESS

Here is the latest dance dress as introduced by Rene Daniels the famous good brunette Paramount film star.

It is of black chiffon, a very fragile appearing creation with winelike draperies and floating panels worn over a black lace and satin slip. The dress is trimmed with big flowers made of shiny black feathers.

It is typical of the modern trend in evening clothes in that it has an irregular line around the bottom. This irregular line, by the way, is the most important note of the present day styles of evening clothes.

What Your Body Tells

THE MAN WHO HATES HIMSELF STRITS

Posture has been greatly misunderstood. It has been taken for granted that if the shoulders were well back, and the person was walking erect, his carriage was perfect.

The away-backed gentleman little realizes that he is far from correct in his manner of walking.

The chin in the air, exaggerated chest, and the arms extended into space, reveal the conceited man who thinks the world is admiring his gait. This is the chap who enjoys being conspicuous.

His nose, tilted in the air, reveals the haughty spirit of the egotist. Self-reliance is excessively developed, and it manifests itself in arrogance, haughtiness, disdain. The person who walks in this fashion is imbued with a sense of his own superior merit and usually treats all other mortals with indifference and contempt. His ridiculous pride and stiff strut result in many enemies, but few friends.

The man who walks in this fashion seldom yields a point and takes suggestions only when they harmonize with his own ideas. Until this man learns how to walk correctly he will pay a great price in social and financial loss. He has too much of the proverbial ramrod down his spine.

BEWARE OF MARRIED MEN BY MARLINE DEHAAS

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc. "BEWARE OF MARRIED MEN," starring Irene Rich, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

Myra Martin, secretary to Leonard Gilbert, a prominent divorce lawyer, is engaged to her employer. One morning her younger sister, Helene, whom she has cared for since the death of their mother, comes to Myra's office and there meets Huxley Sheldon, a notorious man about town whose temperamental wife is attempting to divorce him for the fourth time. Myra warns her sister against Sheldon, but Helene, although interested in Ralph Taylor, is fascinated by the man. Too young to realize the danger of playing with fire, she arranges to meet Sheldon without Myra's knowledge.

CHAPTER III

Myra Martin leaned back in the easy chair in which she was trying to rest after a hard day in the office. The book she had been reading now lay idly in her lap. She closed her eyes for a few moments, and then restlessly re-opened her novel. She turned a few pages idly, but somehow she could not keep her mind on the thread of the story. It slipped away from her and then she would re-read, knowing less than she had before. Finally she threw the book aside on the table, stretched, and yawned. After a while she got up and walked around the room, pushing a cushion to rights, settling a chair.

Her ears were strained to hear any sounds in the hallway of the small apartment house. Once she went to the open window and looked out on the street filled with softly vague shadows, broken here and there by twinkling lights. She

"How did you know I was here?" Helene questioned. She had told Sheldon never to leave his name when he called. It seemed strange that he should have given it over the phone.

"I recognized his voice."

"O, he didn't say who it was?" Helene signed relieved. "Perhaps it was some one else."

"No, I talk with him every day, now, on the phone, and I have a faculty for remembering voices, you know."

"Well, I can't imagine what he wanted—O, well, it doesn't matter—" Helene tried nervously to make conversation, but did not succeed. She could feel Myra's eyes on her, and she fumbled aimlessly with the tapestry of the chair, trying to appear calm. She didn't know how much Myra knew—but she knew that Myra was clever in that quiet way of hers and might have discovered—

"We might as well come to the point, Helene," Myra interrupted her sister's thoughts. "I understand that you had lunch with Huxley Sheldon on Monday at the Plaza."

"And is there any reason why shouldn't?" Helene bridled at the words. "And who told you, any how? Someone's telling tales out of school and I think it's rotten—that's what I do. I know, I'll be anything it was Ralph. He was there Monday, and it's just like him to run to you with all that news. I think it's mean—not to be able to have lunch with someone without all the world gossiping about it. And coming to you. Just wait until I see Ralph."

"Just a moment, Helene," Myra's voice cut sharp and clear through the vituperous outburst of her sister. "First of all I want you to thoroughly understand that Ralph did not tell me."

"Well, then, who did?" Helene demanded.

"No one you know. But don't you see, dear, it bears out exactly what I told you. You can't be seen with a man like Sheldon without it being banded about. There's no particular reason why you should have lunch with Sheldon, so far as I can see. He's certainly not a friend of the family, and he's married."

"But he's getting a divorce."

"Can't you see that only makes it worse, Helene?" Myra questioned patiently.

"No, I can't. Besides, Mr. Sheldon was very nice to me, and I like him."

"So do a great many other girls," Myra began acidly, and then stopped. She was only hurting her cause if she gave vent to her real feelings. She must handle the situation with care.

"O, I know all about those other girls," Helene began angrily.

"Please, Helene, I'm sorry. Don't let's quarrel. I only wanted to talk over this situation with you in a quiet way. I don't want to try to rule your life, or it's comings and goings. I take a great deal of interest in you—you know that."

"I'm sorry, the time, Sis," Helene felt a little ashamed of her outburst. She went over and sat down on a cushion at Myra's feet.

"Fire away, I'm listening."

"I don't want this to sound like a lecture," Myra laughed, now that the tension was broken, "but I just want to repeat what I told you Saturday. Sheldon is bad for any girl's reputation. And the last thing in the world I want to see is my own sister mixed up with him." She stroked the red curls of the younger girl fondly. "I admit that he's a fascinating person. He has everything to make him fascinating—money, position, good looks, a knowledge of the world. I don't blame you for liking him. But to like him right now is very dangerous."

"Why? Because of the divorce?"

"Exactly. You don't know his wife."

"O, but he's told me a lot about her. He says that she really doesn't understand him at all. That all he wants is to be happy and enjoy his own life, and she wants to tie him to her apron strings, and make him stay home, even from the high. And I don't blame him for wanting to get away once in a while."

School nurse, says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

Motorists Taxed $4,500,000 Yearly By Auto Tax Levy

More than $4,500,000 annually is being paid by California motorists who buy new cars to the Federal government in war tax levies. Purchasers of new cars during the twelve months ending August 31, last, paid $4,518,067 on account of this three per cent levy on the factory price of cars.

State Senator Arthur H. Breed, chairman of the Legislative committee of the California State Automobile Association, today announced these figures in connection with the association's campaign to secure repeal of "this needless and discriminatory levy" at the coming session of Congress. The association is leading the western front of the nation-wide battle being waged by the American Automobile Association and its 242 affiliated clubs against the Treasury Department proposal that the war tax be continued as a permanent peace-time levy.

no bearing on the murder charge against Hickman, both District At- torney Keyes and Coroner Nance declared today.

Wagner's official report laid the child's death to fright, exhaustion and hunger. It stated there was no definite evidence that death had been caused by strangulation.

"Hickman confessed Marian Parker died after he throttled her with a towel," Keyes declared. "He admitted he tried to kill her. I'm convinced she was strangled to death."

RESPONSIBLE: KEYES
Keyes said Hickman was re- sponsible for the girl's death be- cause it occurred during the com- mission of a felony, even if the causes given in Wagner's report were the true ones.

"The girl would not have died had she been in her home," the prosecutor asserted.

Coroner Nance issued a state- ment in which he said:

"The fact that Marian Parker died of fright, so far as could be medical determined, rather than by actual suffocation, has no bearing on the legal jeopardy of William Edward Hickman, her confessed slayer.

"If the deceased died from fright and if the fright was caused by the acts of the person, he is as responsible under this indictment of murder in the first degree, as if the immediate result of his act was strangulation."

"This decision is from the case of the State of New York vs. Cox, rendered in 1880."

Hickman slept well last night, from 10 p. m. to 7 a. m. Changing of paj doors roused him from slumber. He had a good ap- petite at breakfast, which con- sisted of stewed peaches, bread and butter, hash and coffee.

The prisoner shows no signs of the ordeal which he has un- dergone, according to his guards. Working in eight-hour shifts, three guards maintain an unbroken watch over Hickman to see that he does not attempt suicide.

Mrs. Lindbergh Delighted With Reception In Mexico

(City Universal Service)

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Dec. 28. Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, en- route from Mexico City to her Detroit classroom, landed at Kelly Field here at 3:50 o'clock this afternoon. She left the capital of the Republic, where she spent the Christmas holidays with her famous son, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, at 6:56 o'clock this morning, a few minutes after her son disappeared over the south- ern horizon on the first leg of his aerial voyage over Central America.

Mrs. Lindbergh was delighted with flight from Mexico City. Perfect flying weather favored the giant tri-motored Ford airliner all the way.

Tampico was reached shortly after 10 o'clock and after a brief stop the plane continued to Brownsville where army fliers had a hot lunch ready for Mrs. Lindbergh and those who are ac- companying her back to Detroit.

At 1:09 o'clock the heavy plane made a beautiful take-off but in doing so almost decapitated a newsreel cameraman, according to Harry Brooks the pilot. The cam- eraman, Brooks said, was sitting on an embankment at the end of the take-off and was so wrapped up in his task of shooting the take-off that he failed to notice that the plane was skimming along just a few feet above the ground. The under-carriage of the huge plane missed the camera- man by inches, the pilot said.

Mrs. Lindbergh said she was thrilled good and proper this morning when she saw her son start on his tour of Central America. It was the first time that Mrs. Lindbergh had seen her son start on one of his history-making flights.

"Were you sorry to see him leave?" Mrs. Lindbergh was asked. "Absolutely no. I have every confidence in him and know that I will see him sometime in Janu- ary after he returns to the "United States," the famous mother answered.

Mrs. Lindbergh described her Christmas in Mexico City as a "delightful time."

No entertainment has been planned for Mrs. Lindbergh to- night. She asked that she be al- lowed to rest undisturbed almost as soon as she got out of the plane.

Bright and early tomorrow morning Mrs. Lindbergh will re- sume her homeward flight.

This lamp really lights

The money you spend for one of these lamps does more to im- prove a room than the same money spent for other furnish- ings.

For the abundance of soft col- orful light makes an "interior" seem lovelier. It's just like redeco- rating the whole room.

These floor and table lamps are different from any other lamp. There is a reflector under the silk shade that diffuses or scatters the light. This is the new principle of design that combines beauty with good lighting and eliminates harmful gloom and glare. Such lighting is kind to your family's eyes.

The lamps have a base finished in silver or gold and there is a selection of four silk shades. You can see them at

DEATH TOLL IN AUTO CRASHES ON INCREASE

(City Universal Service)

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 28. Cali- fornia's automobile death toll has been steadily increased for the last six years, and the total number of deaths from motor vehicle accidents this year will possibly shatter all records.

The reason was drawn to- day from official records of the State Bureau of Vital Statistics showing that automobile deaths for the first nine months of 1927 aggregated 1,234, or 139 more than all the victims of highway acci- dents in 1922.

A month by month comparison of automobile deaths this year and last led state statisticians to the prediction that the end of 1927 will witness a total exceeding even the staggering record of 1,623 fatalities for 1926.

The California Motor Vehicle death records for the last five years were announced as follows:

Year	Deaths

ENGLISH NOBLE, YANKEE DANCER TO BE MARRIED

(City Universal Service)

PARIS, Dec. 28.—Edythe Bak- er, American dancer, and Robin "Pop" D'Erlanger, youngest son of a titled British banker, are planning to elope to Paris to get married. Announcement of the engagement of the Kansas City girl to young D'Erlanger, which caused a stir in London society, has created a storm in the D'Erlanger family, friends in Paris learned.

D'Erlanger has defied parental objections to his marriage and is reported to have been disin- herited. "Pop," however, is as determined as was his older brother who married Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt against the wishes of his father, and has firmly de- cided to come to Paris and be married here.

Miss Baker, whose dancing has been a hit of the London season, was unable to leave until her contract ended Christmas Eve, and the couple are expected here shortly, including "Pop's" sister, Princess Jeanne Faucigny-Lucinge are preparing a warm welcome.

Officials For Penn-Cal Game Named

BERKELEY, Dec. 28. With the naming of Ralph McLeod as umpire and Rube Kludens as head referee, the Penn-Cal football game, scheduled for Jan. 1 at Berkeley, has been completed.

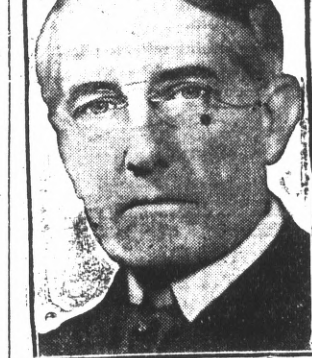

W. G. Gray II of Berkeley and Charles H. Roden of Washington and Jefferson had already been selected as referees and field judges by Ernest B. Owens, graduate manager of the University of California.

The game, which will be held at the University of California, is expected to be one of the best of the season. The Penn-Cal game is one of the most important in the West.

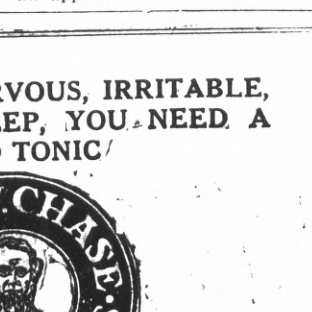

Both men named by California are well-known officials. Ralph McLeod, the umpire, is from Los Angeles and did his first officiating in the middle west for the Big Ten Conference. Kludens is a Chicago man residing in San Francisco.

Hits Atheists

IN A RESOLUTION approved by his parish, the Rev. Dr. John R. Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, New York, assails Supreme Court Justice Brandeis (above), and deplores his action in dismissing the pastor's complaint against the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, characterizing their literature as "blasphemous, seditious and even treasonous." Dr. Straton asks the district attorney to make an appeal.

Boston's Olympic Hopes

ATHLETES FROM THE HUB are expected to play a prominent part in the Olympic Games at Amsterdam, Holland, next summer. Lloyd Hahn (right) who conquered Nurmi and Edwin Wide, is training faithfully for the classic, and hopes to score in several events for Uncle Sam. After the games are over Hahn will in all probability hang up his running togs for good. Hahn is being trained by Jack Ryder of the Boston Athletic Association, and will be ready for the 800 and 1,500 meter events. He has been clocked in 4 minutes 12 1-5 seconds for the mile. Harold Southill (left), who has just been reinstated after a five-year suspension, is known to the sport world as the "Flying Parson," and may also win a place on the Olympic team and carry the colors of the Boston A. A. to victory.

Until the denials begin to arrive in the afternoon mail, R. Peckinpach is the new manager of the Cleveland Indians, and with Billy Evans will try to put the Tribe back into the running for a pennant. Offhand, we would say that Roger had a task, but he knows his business, and under the sympathetic influences that are now guiding the destinies of the Cleveland club should be a good man for the job. If he gets good ball players, Peck will soon have them playing good baseball.

For the past few years Peck has been playing the part of the "steady influence" for several major league clubs. When a player gets up in the veteran class and a little unsteady on his own underpinning, the boys excuse his little mechanical deficiencies by explaining that he steadies the rest of the infield because of his experience. Peck steadied the Washington infield after leaving the Yankees so well that the Senators won two pennants in 1924 and 1925, and they might have won two world's championships if Peck had not grown too steady in the 1925 World series and let everything that wasn't hit right into his mitts continue on into left field.

Last year, Ray Schalk cast Roger in the role of the "steady influence" for the White Sox, but it became apparent early in the season that seventeen years in the big leagues had taken about all of the big league playing Peckinpach was capable of and he gave way to Hunnefeld and Flaskaemper, two youngsters.

Peck always had a reputation for being a heavy player. When Hal Chase quit as manager of the Yankees while the pennant campaign was still on, in September, 1914, Peck finished out the season in the role of Yankee manager until Frank Chance was hired to pilot the team in 1915. At that time Peckinpach was playing his first full season with the Yanks, and had only three years of major league baseball behind him. Still, he had shown in that short time that he knew what it was all about.

While he was with the Yankees Peck acted as field captain, and carried out all of Hug's orders from the bench. Since he left, the Hugmen have been without a regular captain, though Tony Lazzeri now acts as Hug's field interpreter on occasion. While with the Senators and the White Sox, Peck always acted as the right-hand-man to both Stanley Harris, and Ray Schalk.

Now, in full possession of a manager's title, Peck will be able to put his own baseball theories into free practice. Instead of steadying the boys from a place in the infield, the Little Cleveland can drive them on from the bench. Acting in concert with Billy Evans, who knows a thing

WHEN TEX SHOT FIRECRACKERS CHRISTMAS DAY

It is difficult to look back over a long array of Christmas days and put your finger on any one which, in memory is more easily remembered than another.

Christmas Day is more of a spirit than an anniversary. Try to distinguish one from another, and you find only a soft blue of mist and hazy wreaths.

I asked Tex Rickard if he remembered the happiest Christmas he had ever spent. I asked him, because of all the principals in sports, his memory is probably the keenest and his powers of observation greatest.

And Tex didn't fail in this. Without asking for a few minutes, he was ready to narrate his happiest Christmas, and he told me the happiest Christmas he had ever spent.

"I was born in a coal yard," Tex recalled. "I was born in a coal yard, and my father was a coal miner. I was born in a coal yard, and my father was a coal miner. I was born in a coal yard, and my father was a coal miner."

"I was born in a coal yard," Tex recalled. "I was born in a coal yard, and my father was a coal miner. I was born in a coal yard, and my father was a coal miner. I was born in a coal yard, and my father was a coal miner."

35 SIGNS TELL ADVANTAGE OF INDUSTRY HERE

Thirty-five metal oval-shaped signs now line the highway from Carquinez bridge to the gates of Richmond, forcefully presenting outstanding facts about California's fourth payroll city and fourth port in tonnage on the Pacific Coast.

Two Richmond girls—Pearl Terry and Geraldine Cleek assigned in putting the signs in position at conspicuous places along the State highway between Richmond and Carquinez bridge.

Brief statements set forth the advantages of Richmond to industry and individual alike. Among these are:

"Richmond—beckoning to industry and individuals alike." "Richmond—14 miles of water front." "Richmond—selected by Ford for his $5,000,000 plant." "Richmond—fourth payroll city in California." "Fourth port in tonnage on the Pacific." "Richmond—youthful city of opportunity." "Factory output $125,000,000 annually."

Health Items On Milk

(Contributed by Richmond Dept. of Health)

The health of a community is profoundly influenced by the safety and wholesomeness of its milk supply and likewise by the amount of milk consumed. This is evident from our knowledge of its remarkable value as a food.

MILK AS A FOOD—Milk holds a unique place in the dietary in that it is more universally used than any other food commodity. It is commonly spoken of as the "Perfect Food" for the reason that it contains all the food elements namely fats, proteins, carbohydrates and mineral salts in such proportions as to constitute a well-balanced ration. All of these elements are necessary for the building up and repair of bodily tissues.

Of the minerals contained in milk, calcium, which is present in liberal amounts, is probably the most important because it is essential to the proper development of bones and teeth of childhood. Moreover, research and experimental studies have taught us that milk of standard quality contains certain other essential factors known as vitamins. It has been shown that these mysterious substances in milk are very vital to the maintenance of health and, if supplied in sufficient amounts, will protect against certain diseases, which stunt the growth and retard the development of mind and body.

SANITARY MILK CONTROL—Whether or not milk as it reaches the consumer is a perfect food and deserving of the virtues proclaimed for it, depends entirely on whether it measures up to proper standards of purity, wholesomeness and nutritive value. This is why so much emphasis is placed upon pure milk and why the health officials accept the control and safeguarding of the milk supply as one of their major duties.

Again, the extensive use of milk as a food for infants, the sick and the convalescent makes its purity and wholesomeness imperative, as these individuals are less able to resist the harmful effects of any deleterious substance that it might contain.

Richmond's milk supply is obtained from approximately 600 cows on about 155 dairies mostly located within a close distance of Richmond. The efficiency of a milk control system is comparable to a chain which is no stronger than its weakest link. Inspection of milk, to be effective, must cover in detail each movement or process to which the product is subjected throughout its entire route from the cow to the consumer. This includes principally inspection at the farm, at the country intake station where received, during transit, at the pasteurizing or distributing plant and during distribution to the home. Each dairyman is now required to have on file in the office of the Health Department, a certificate of health issued by the Health Department, certifying to his health as well as all of his employees and also to the health of the dairy animals.

BREAST MILK—Nature intended that the human mother should nourish her off-spring during the first year of life. Human breast milk is especially fitted by Nature for the human baby. A baby raised on breast milk has a far better chance of thriving and surviving than one fed on other kinds of milk or artificial foods. Many mothers can supply the baby with unlimited amounts of breast milk while others can supply only a part of the amount necessary for the child's needs. Expectant mothers and nursing mothers can increase their own milk production by taking cow's milk regularly. When the breast milk fails, cow's milk is the nearest available substitute for breast milk. So extensive is the use of cow's milk as a substitute for breast milk that the cow has been appropriately called, "The foster mother of the human race."

Excepting certified milk, in Richmond, dealers are allowed to sell two kinds of milk, grade "A" Raw milk and Pasteurized milk. The production of certified milk dates back some 30 years, when a movement was launched by medical men, which had for its purpose, the production of the cleanest and best raw milk that it was possible to produce. Rigorous examination of the dairies, veterinary examination of the cows and medical examination of the milkers are carried out by the Health Department. Our rules require that every new employee who begins work upon a dairy must have a thorough physical examination as though he were taking out life insurance.

The lives and the health of many babies, children and grown-ups, who need and use milk are thus protected. When milk must be supplied to very many consumers, as in a large city, where farms cannot be so closely supervised great dependence must be placed upon the process known as pasteurization.

PASTEURIZED MILK—Pasteurization of milk briefly defined, is heating the milk to a temperature of not less than 145 degrees, F., and keeping at that temperature for a period of not less than 30 minutes. It must be distinctly understood that the pasteurization of milk is not and never was intended as a corrective for milk from diseased dairy cattle or for uncleanness in production. It does not make dirty milk clean or poor milk rich. The control of pasteurization in Richmond is very comprehensive. Regular inspection is made of all plants to see that pasteurization is properly carried out and that proper sanitation of the premises and equipment is maintained. Daily chart records are made which show the temperature to which the milk is heated and the length of time such temperature was maintained. Samples of pasteurized milk are being constantly tested at the city laboratory.

The value of the pasteurization of milk in Richmond has been well exemplified in the fact that we have had no milk-borne epidemics of disease since it was established here and we were one of the first cities of this State to require pasteurization. This, no doubt, has been a large factor in the prevention of contagious diseases and also reducing infant mortality.

USE MORE MILK—The health officials' first duty to his community is to protect it against the spread of disease through milk and to carry out such methods of control as will insure a pure and wholesome product. Practically less than one pint of milk per day is consumed by our citizens, still the fact remains that the health

MAN SLAYS 3, KILLS SELF

(By Universal Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—No one came to visit Rodney R. Smith on Christmas Day at his apartment where he is being treated for a broken neck received some weeks ago, in an automobile accident.

So today Smith shot himself to death with a revolver, leaving a note saying that all of his friends are dead and that he wanted to die also.

He left a sealed letter addressed to W. G. Mittner, 10940 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio, which the police are mailing.

Smith's physicians said that his broken neck was improving gradually and that he would have recovered eventually. He had been in California for the past six months.

of our people would be materially benefited if more milk were consumed. More milk is necessary to provide sufficient nourishment for the growth of the infant and also to maintain the health balance of the individual.

CARE OF MILK IN THE HOME—While the production, pasteurization and handling of milk are carefully supervised by the Health Department in its entire route from producer to consumer, our jurisdiction ceases when the milk enters the home. Much of the good work which has been done to insure a superior bottle at your doorstep, may be undone if the milk is not properly cared for in the home. Every housewife should, therefore, consider herself a health inspector.

There are two essentials in the care of milk in the home—that it should be kept COLD and CLEAN. As soon as a bottle of milk is received, the top should be washed carefully and dried with a clean cloth. By doing this, clean milk will not become contaminated in its removal from the container, which may have passed through many hands or become contaminated by other means. The bottle of milk, immediately after being cleaned externally, should be placed unopened in an ice-chest until ready for consumption. If a portion of the milk remains unused and it is kept in its original container, it should be kept covered with a clean cap or an inverted tumbler. Otherwise it should be removed to a clean, covered, sterile vessel. No other method of cooling is as satisfactory as a good ice-chest or a refrigerator. Milk kept at room temperature or out on a window ledge is subject to undesirable changes due to variations in the temperature. The ideal temperature for the storage of milk in the home is at or not higher than 55 F. The care of the ice-chest is of great importance in the storage of food and milk especially absorbs any foreign odors that may be present. The refrigerator must be kept clean and free from dampness and from vegetable or other odors which give milk an objectionable flavor. Finally, the quality of milk, both from the standpoint of its wholesomeness and flavor, depends largely on its contact with none but sterile articles.

Milk bottles should never be used for any other purpose than to hold milk, not only because because their loss or breakage creates an enormous economic loss to the industry but for the reason that many such uses unfit them for use as milk container.

It has been said that a householder may be judged by the condition of his door-yard and if this be true, it follows that the care of the milk in the home can be told by the appearance of the empty milk bottles set out for the milk-man.

Any complaint regarding milk will be carefully investigated if reported to the Health Office, City Hall, telephone Richmond 302.

GRIM REAPER CALLS NOTED FIGURE OF BAR

(By Universal Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—The State Bar of California lost today its most noted figure—Gavin McNab.

Seized suddenly with heart failure while alone in his office just after he had completed dictating to his secretary, his unconscious form was found slumped over his desk by the secretary, Miss L. L. Dunn—when she returned to his private office to obtain his signature to the letters. He died before medical aid could be summoned or he could be removed to a hospital or to his home. He was 58 years old.

WHAT IS "MARKETING?"

Marketing is more than selling, more than distribution, more than advertising. It is a combination of all of these things and more. It means a consciousness on the part of the management that an organization cannot operate successfully upon haphazard methods but must have a definite good "That of rendering the public an economic service along constructive lines." All of these factors are involved in the management of our business. Thus making our customers who so loyally support us a very valuable asset to their community.

GREETINGS!

In this season of goodwill, therefore, we are happy to express the sentiment of the 30,000 men and women on the Pacific Coast, many of whom you, our customers, seldom if ever see or hear in their capacity as telephone folk. And yet they are your neighbors. They attend the same theatres, clubs and social gatherings; rub elbows with you in the public conveyances on their way to work; patronize the same stores, travel the same highways, pay taxes in the same communities and states. They help support the same charities and play their parts in civic life.

IN this era of scientific achievement and human progress when man's imagination is challenged almost daily by new developments of world wide importance and countless lesser contributions to the sum of human happiness and convenience in our daily lives, too frequently as individuals we take all this for granted, looking forward only to the next wonder to be thrust upon a waiting world. So Telephone Service—an every hour convenience in the lives of all of us and a prime factor in the speed and success of modern business—is too generally visualized only as the telephone.

Our payrolls during the past year have amounted to $41,440,000, such salaries and wages having been spent almost entirely in the communities where our employees live. Our telephone system on this coast paid $7,375,000 in local, state and federal taxes during 1927. We have expended $36,500,000 in extending and improving the telephone plant on the Pacific Coast. We have furnished efficient, dependable and economical telephone service throughout our territory. We take justifiable pride in the achievement of this and other years.

We wish you a Happy and Prosperous New Year and take this opportunity to thank you for the cooperation that has made our privilege of serving you a happy one
